Clemmensen applies the finishing touch to one of the countless cakes he's turned out in his 25 years in business at Clemmensen Danish Bakery, in Albany and in Richmond. Clemmensen and his wife, Shirley,

BINGO! Schools find a new money source

RUSD board gives unanimous approval

By BARBARA ERICKSON

The Richmond Unified school board has unanimously endorsed holding bingo games on district property to raise money for sports, clubs, drama and textbooks.

The board added a new touch to the usually routine affair of taking the vote Wednesday night when the members called out in turn "B" "I" "N" "G" "O" instead of the usual "yes" or "no" to the roll call. Their decision allows elementary as well as secondary schools to hold bingo games on district property.

The vote means that parent groups in at least four local high schools will now start setting dates, gathering volunteers and renting equipment to hold bingo games on a regular basis or in one-shot "specials."

They have started to take up bingo as a fund-raiser in order to flesh out district programs depleted this year by budget. In trimming $5-million last summer the board was forced to cut into athletics, eliminate the sixth period in most secondary grades, and cut staff and other pro-

Public works' big agenda

By JUDY POLUMBAUM

ALBANY — Public Works Director Robert Guletz is a man with a lot on his mind, not to mention his desk.

Guletz shared his long list of works-in-progress and a substantial agenda of future projects with the public Monday night in a report to the City Council, the latest in a series of informal presentations by city department heads.

An hour was barely enough time for him to blitz through two single-spaced pages outlining the work of his office.

Projects already underway range from the bicycle path by the BART tracks, road resurfacing, conversion of street lights to more economical high-sodium lamps and addition of facilities for the handicapped at the library to revision of outdated fees and purging of cluttered files.

Guletz also reviewed the status of construction around the city. He mentioned that two new commercial buildings on Solano Avenue are nearly complete and that Wilkinson Brothers, a forklift company, has consolidated three former locations in Berkeley into a new plant on Frontage Road in Albany.

Going through planning and zoning concerns, Guletz said his department will bring a proposed amend-

Housing for seniors El Cerrito starts HomeShare program

By CHARLES PELTON

EL CERRITO — Most senior citizens on modest, fixed incomes have difficulty finding affordable housing in the East Bay. But two new shared housing programs in El Cerrito and Berkeley will offer some relief.

The collapse of Senior Homes, Inc., earlier this year sent concerned El Cerrito residents searching for new sources of senior housing. Senior Homes, a coalition of El Cerrito churches, had been working to find an El Cerrito site for government-subsidized housing for the elderly.

On Nov. 1, El Cerrito's Committee on Aging inaugurated a program called HomeShare.

Its purpose is to "bring together providers and seekers of housing in El Cerrito, Kensington, and the Richmond Annex," explained Katie Lewis, supervisor of El Cerrito Senior Services.

Bay toxic spill report unveiled

NORMAN COLBY

A member task force has completed nearly a year of deliberations by adopting 76 recommendations to deal with hazardous materials in the nine Bay Area counties. Recommendations, unveiled at a meeting of the Assembly of Bay Area Governments in San Pablo, stop short of endorsing a "right-to-know" law that would force private companies to reveal confidential information to the public.

Priority was given to plans for creation of four-member response teams in several counties to deal with dioxin — with one team assigned to West Contra Costa County serving the central and spills in the Bay Area.

The task force called for each county to develop programs relating to assessment of risks, spill prevention, spill response, training of personnel, legal liability of those who cause spills, financing of the programs and future planning.

The task force also suggested each county adopt disclosure laws that would require private industry to give information about their storage and transportation of hazardous materials to public safety agencies.

The report said, however, that any proposal to force private industry to give the same information to the general public is a "political decision to be addressed by each jurisdiction."

This clause had been the subject of much debate during previous task force meetings.

Contra Costa Supervisor Nancy Fadden, the task force chairwoman, said she "had hoped that the task

Mudflats named wildlife preserve

State will manage land

By JUDY POLUMBAUM

ALBANY — The State Lands Commission's recent decision to set aside 160 acres of Albany tidelands as a wildlife preserve will be formalized next month when the State Department of Fish and Game takes over management of the land.

The three-member commission voted Oct. 28 to exercise "public trust" over the area known as the Albany mudflats, most of which is owned by Santa Fe Improvement Co. It also ruled that the most appropriate use for the mudflats would be for open space and wildlife protection.

While Santa Fe retains title to what is called the "underlying fee," the Lands Commission has an easement allowing public access to the site. In addition, one strip of the area along Hoffman Boulevard is owned by the California Department of Transportation.

Fish and Game authorities will manage the land under leases from the Lands Commission and Caltrans, according to Walter Cook, an attorney with the commission.

In practical terms, the new management will mean little change, according to Ted Wooster, who testified on behalf of Fish and Game at hearings on the tidelands matter.

"We would prefer to see the level of use to stay similar to what it is now," Wooster said.

That means, for instance, that bank fishing on the north side would continue to exist and small craft still could be launched by hand. Access from Hoffman Boulevard would not be increased.

One possible change, however, would be the creation of a new access by Golden Gate Fields. People who want to fish from that side now are blocked by no-trespassing signs.

But the main principle is avoiding intensive use in order to protect the area's ecology and wildlife. "There are no big plans to put in public grams. Ben Conchas, president of the Richmond High PTSA, said he will call a meeting of all the parent groups in the district's high schools to coordinate dates and possibly share equipment.

Bingo: new source of school funds

Conchas said Richmond may hold games twice a month in the school cafeteria. Funds would go to scholarships, supplies and possibly to support a vocational education program in refrigeration.

At El Cerrito High, the American Field Service exchange club is planning a one-day bingo special Jan. 15. Principal Anna Blackman said the school Booster Club, now forming, will probably hold another special later.

AFS will use money to help host families and students with expenses like uniforms, travel and fees for extracurricular activities. The boosters club, she said, may use bingo proceeds for text books and fine arts.

Jim Brooks, De Anza athletic director, said the school badly needs funds to keep the sports program going and possibly to expand into intramural athletics.

The De Anza Boosters Club has been planning bingo fund-raising for athletics, but PTSA President Barbara Amantea said the two groups should get together and agree on how to proceed.

"I think that to make it great big and successful," she said, "they would want to work with us." The PTSA, she said, is looking at ways to fund a small theater on the campus, possibly by building a stage in a portable building this year.

At Pinole Valley High School parents are talking of using bingo money for individual sports.

Some of the Pinole programs, such as swimming, tennis and water polo, are funded by parents now. Bingo could help these sports and possibly support the addition of wrestling and badminton as well, according to principal Robert Foo.

David Taylor, district public information officer, said the Albany, Antioch, Fairfield and Pittsburg school districts use bingo now to raise money. They raise from $50,000 to $100,000 a year, he said, if they hold games on a weekly basis.

A successful night's take, he said, would be about $1,000 to $2,000.

According to state law, bingo must be run by volunteers and prizes cannot exceed $250 per game. Only non-profit agencies can offer bingo.

Churches, senior centers, boys' clubs and other groups hold bingo in West Contra Costa County, with a typical night offering a dozen or more games. Players usually buy discardable sheets of six games each as well as soft drinks, coffee, and other refreshments.

California also allows bingo volunteers to sell "break-aways," cards that peel back to reveal combinations of lemons, stars and other objects. With the right combination players can win up to $100 on one card.

The four cities where Richmond Unified High Schools are located all have bingo ordinances. El Cerrito charges $50 for an annual license fee, San Pablo $40, and Pinole and Richmond charge no fee.

ment to the city's sign ordinance before the council as early as next week. Its intention is to speed the demise of some of the town's larger eyesores.

Projects envisioned for the next year or so include drafting a newsrack ordinance aimed at tidying up sidewalks now hosting an abundance of newspaper vending boxes; relocating parking signs onto streetlight poles on main avenues to cut down on clutter and maintenance; and updating building and public works codes.

Another particularly stubborn goal is to close the Albany landfill, the focus of longstanding litigation between the landfill operator and the city.

Yet another major project, sewer rehabilitation, will be discussed in depth before the City Council next week.

Guletz said vandalism is one of his department's major problems — from litter and graffiti to sign destruction and wanton disposal of trash. "Dumping garbage at the end of Frontage Road has been a very popular pastime," he observed.

He added that staff reductions have made everything harder, saying, "There's just no way that they can keep up with the work."

launching ramps and campgrounds and so on," Wooster said.

One of the best views of the Albany mudflats is commanded from the Albany Hill home of Mayor Ruth Ganong, where members of the East Bay Shoreline Advisory Committee gathered recently to celebrate the first major step toward the establishment of a long-studied East Bay Shoreline Park.

The gathering was also a chance to commend Cook of the Lands Commission, who is retiring at the end of the year, for his contributions in clarifying the status of the Albany tidelands and other lands along the bay. Ganong presented Cook with a plaque of appreciation from the Albany City Council.

The Lands Commission decision on the Albany parcel — based in part on a 1980 Supreme Court ruling on a

Berkeley case which said baylands which remain unfilled are subject to public trust even though title to the land may be in private hands — has important implications for future efforts to set aside portions of undeveloped shoreline for public use, according to Cook.

"It's a very important thing for the people to know that they do have these rights in these tide areas," he said.

force would have taken a more positive stand by favoring adoption of disclosure laws to provide the general public with the information."

"Private industries have resisted this, saying this would be giving away their trade secrets," she said. "But I think they will eventually see the handwriting on the wall."

Falden noted that a more "positive" approach might result from the recent formation by the Board of Supervisors of a hazardous materials task force.

The report urges that the emergency response teams each be composed of four trained persons, able to respond within 30 minutes to any situation. Additional emergency teams would be organized in several other counties, under the proposals.

ABAG project manager Lorene Russell said the task force report will come up for discussion before the ABAG executive committee on Dec. 2, then be the subject of public hearings in January.

If the guidelines are approved by ABAG, however, they would carry no legal force.

The report refers to four "most critical" areas, including, "the East Bay extending from Alameda through Rodeo."

"Substantially more spills were recorded for Contra Costa County during 1980 than for any other county in the area," the report said.

"Most of these incidents occurred in the industrialized strip between Richmond and Martinez," the report said, noting that "the area around Richmond is particularly characterized by many spill incidents."

The report also noted that the "many natural gas and petroleum product pipelines" in county offer the "potential for serious environmental harm to the Bay and Delta."

El Cerrito HomeShare more senior housing

"The program does not intend to actually match people," she said. "We expect them to take on 98 percent of that responsibility themselves."

"We provide counseling services and forms in which someone looking for shared housing or someone who wishes to provide it can fill out their needs and requirements. The office is open Mondays and Fridays at noon for those who wish to use the listings."

El Cerrito's program is closely modeled after Berkeley's Project Share. Started in February of 1981, Project Share originally tried to actively match potential housemates.

"We found that it is more effective to simply collect the needed information, making it public to the interested parties," said Arthur Gladstone, director of the Berkeley project.

El Cerrito's Lewis agrees: "Matches that last are matches that people make themselves."

The Berkeley program is supported partly through an HUD grant which the city administers and partly through money from the Older Americans Act channeled through Bay Area Community Services in Oakland.

El Cerrito's program, however, has not yet managed to win any special funds.

The backbone of both projects is a bank of volunteers who counsel prospective clients. Volunteers help each individual think through their housing requirements and needs.

With limited financial backing, the importance of the volunteer in guiding successful matches has been heightened. "The El Cerrito program will sink or swim depending upon the volunteers' commitment to it," said Lewis.

"What we try to show the client is how to negotiate an effective match," said Sheila Becker, the volunteer coordinator at El Cerrito. A Canadian psychologist, Becker manages the El Cerrito.

"One problem we find is that often people move together too quickly, too impulsively," stone said.

"We also find that people often have experience living together. Many may have only known one housemate for the past 40 or 50 years."

In both programs matches are not made between seniors. A younger person, for instance, may be the spare room of a senior's home. The housemate may agree, for instance, to provide services as housekeeping instead of paying rent.

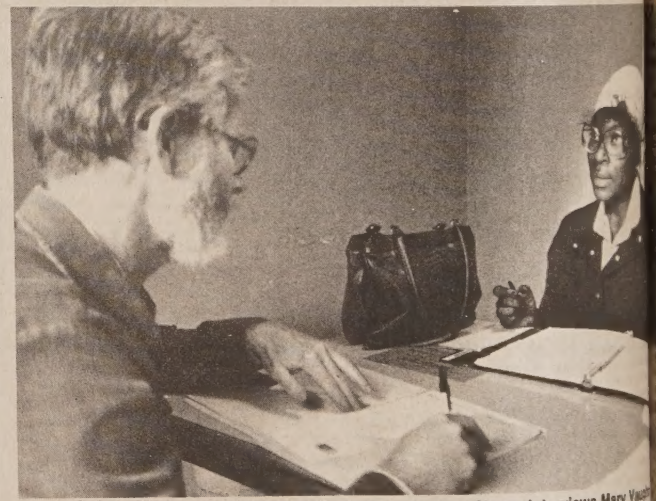

One participant in the Berkeley program, Velma Hill, in her mid-sixties, has had two matches, one of whom was 15 years younger than she. "I'm happy to have them here," Hill said. "It's a good thing for an older person to have someone around."

El Cerrito has had only a handful of matches. Clients use its services during the first three months of operation. But it sometimes takes a while for a program has the visibility to community clients.

Berkeley's Project Share had to wait months before its first successful match. By May of 1981 it has made 45 matches involving more than 100 people.

"Publicity is vital," Gladstone explains. "A group of share housing agencies is getting together to pool resources to work on this problem. We make up a brochure telling an interested person where they can go for help depending upon their live. We may even try to run spot announcements on radio or television."

HomeShare is located in the Office of Services, 6401 Manila, El Cerrito. Phone 7447.

Pierre Franey's kitchen:
food is a labor of love

By OLGA BIER

Unless you are "into" cooking, the name Pierre Franey might not mean anything to you.

The fact that great numbers of recipes and food books and book jackets bear his name still won't mean much to a professional who works at his craft with the assurance of someone who knows exactly what he is doing and does it with the confidence and ease of a chef.

Pierre Franey stirs his own pots, chops his own vegetables, and in his own words, "I do my own cooking, by which I mean I want to know what's going on."

With his good friend Craig Claiborne, famous food writer of the New York Times, Franey has been stirring the pot and creating dishes for 43 years since he arrived as a chef in Paris as a member of the cooking team at the French Pavillon at the New York World's Fair in 1939. Later, as chef for the legendary Le Pavillon restaurant in New York, and now as "writer" for the New York Times, he has not ceased to be actively involved in the culinary world as a chef's chef.

Over lunch at Fournou's Ovens at the Stanford Court in San Francisco, the handsome white-haired Frenchman about his new book "Pierre Franey's Kitchen," his long association with Craig Claiborne and the fact that he and his wife Betty have for the famous editor, a very pleasant luncheon interlude with an attractive, warm, and interesting human being.

The famous and near famous authors and citizens known stopped at the table to greet Pierre, we talked about his long association with Craig Claiborne and the fact that he and his wife Betty have for the famous editor, a very pleasant luncheon interlude with an attractive, warm, and interesting human being.

After one has spoken with Pierre Franey and listened to his soft Gallic pronunciations and phrasing, the copy in the book is hardly discordant, however clear, precise, and beautifully it is phrased. It is a literary explanation that is meant to clarify and instruct. It does that very well, but, oh, it doesn't sound like Pierre, much the pity.

Dealing with 101 essential kitchen utensils and over 300 step-by-step technique photographs, "Pierre Franey's Kitchen" is a book that could become a classic reference. Of course, these are the tools preferred by one man, and surely all cooks have favorites that they cannot be without. Franey offers a list of basic kitchen contents that will please even the plainest cook since his basic kitchen list was responsible for Franey's ultimate recognition by the New York Times as the great chef he is. It was finally in 1976 that they hired him to prepare his "Sixty Minute Gourmet" column which subsequently became the two best sellers of the same name.

Franey, who explained that his name comes from an Irish ancestor who fought with Napoleon, pronounces his name Frahnay. He lives in East Hampton, New York, with Betty, his wife of 33 years. As one would imagine a happy French family man would, he dotes on his two daughters and his grandchildren. The kitchen of his book is truly his own kitchen, and it is there that the material for the book exists.

In a very simple format with basic cooking information that is highly overdue in this era of trendy and specialized cuisine, Franey takes every piece of equipment he has, explains its use, and gives a recipe or two utilizing that item. What could be simpler or more logical for a cooking book? The actual writing is done by co-author Richard Flaste as it is by Claiborne for Franey's column "The Sixty Minute Gourmet." But it is Franey who "stirs the pot" and develops the recipe and technique. (It is he, also, who does the same for Craig Claiborne whose admitted presence in the kitchen is mainly behind a typewriter, recording each detail of Franey's procedures.)

After one has spoken with Pierre Franey and listened to his soft Gallic pronunciations and phrasing, the copy in the book is hardly discordant, however clear, precise, and beautifully it is phrased. It is a literary explanation that is meant to clarify and instruct. It does that very well, but, oh, it doesn't sound like Pierre, much the pity.

Dealing with 101 essential kitchen utensils and over 300 step-by-step technique photographs, "Pierre Franey's Kitchen" is a book that could become a classic reference. Of course, these are the tools preferred by one man, and surely all cooks have favorites that they cannot be without. Franey offers a list of basic kitchen contents that will please even the plainest cook since his basic kitchen list includes very few of the "gourmet" gadgets sold at fashionable cookware shops.

His respect and fondness for good equipment, however, is unmistakable. He recommends that "the best of equipment provides the best of starts." That, he hastens to add, doesn't always mean the same as the most expensive.

sive.

The book then goes on to describe more specialized equipment such as a fish poacher, crepe pan, clay pot, wok, terrine, soufflé dish, and tart pans; offering clear instructions in their use and a recipe or two for starters.

Sharing the kitchen with a chef of Pierre Franey's caliber must create some problems for Betty Franey, but Pierre chuckled as he denied this. "She never takes my suggestions so I don't give them," he stated matter-of-factly. "She does things her way and I do mine my way. And — she is a very good cook."

For the upcoming Thanksgiving holiday, Franey will prepare the family's traditional turkey with sausage and chestnut dressing. It will not, however, be in the bird because Franey uses the technique of removing the legs from the carcass, along with wings and backbone, and roasting the pieces in a much shorter time, assuring their juiciness and tenderness. Betty will bake the pumpkin pies and you can be sure that everyone at the table will be royally fed.

As with most people who love what they do, Pierre Franey's idea of relaxation is getting together with colleagues and cooking up a kind of elegant pot luck to which they all can contribute. One of his favorite occasions for this is when he and his culinary cronies go hunting in the Catskills. Can you imagine the casseroles, wines, cheeses and pates that are passed around the camp table? Formidable!

Even on his daily 15-mile bike ride, Pierre Franey says he mentally works out ideas and recipes while working out his body. "I am always thinking about new dishes," he admits. Craig Claiborne in one of his books claims that Franey can duplicate any flavor or dish in the world from a description. Realizing how much food plays a part in his every moment, this is easy to believe.

Franey recalls having aspired to a career as a chef from the tender age of 9. His mother and grandmother were his inspirations in the kitchen, and because he "loves the ladies" his second aspiration was to be a hairdresser. For those of us who profit from his expertise in the culinary world, we can only say, "Count your blessings, Mr. Kenneth and Vidal Sassoon. You might both have remained barbers if Pierre Franey had not been accepted as a teen-age apprentice cook that fateful day in France!"

Olga Bier, a teacher, author and home economist, writes the Times Journal's weekly food and nutrition column, "Pot Luck."

A few favorite foods from Franey's kitchen

Pierre Franey says in the introduction to his book, "It is a personal book about kitchen equipment and food and my experiences with both, growing out of a century of cooking for a living. Much of the equipment is also accompanied by recipes. Prepare that hollandaise once in a slant-side copper saucepan and you will understand how protective a good pan can be."

Moreover, I have been appalled by some of the recipes that accompany many of the devices sold for home use, and I hope that this book in some way will stand as a antidote to those.

The recipes I offer are exactly those I use for my clay pan and my ice cream machine and food processor. They are for the most part simple: home cooking, I become burdensome if it is too complicated. Those given below can be found in the chapters on the Mandoline, wire whisks, black steel frying pans, terrines, and flan ring.

ZUCCHINI JULIENNE WITH PESTO

1 cup (tightly packed) fresh basil leaves
1/2 cup plus 1 T. virgin olive oil
1/2 cup pine nuts
1/2 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
2 cloves garlic, halved
1 medium zucchini (about 1 1/4 pounds), trimmed and cut into julienne strips
1/2 salt
1/2 cup freshly ground pepper

Combine basil, the 1/2 cup oil, pine nuts, cheese and garlic in blender or food processor with metal blade. Turn machine on and off, until basil and nuts are finely chopped.

Heat the 1 T. oil in a large skillet over medium-high heat. Add zucchini; stir-fry until heated through but still moist, about 3 minutes. Season with salt and pepper.

Stir in the pesto sauce and mix well. Transfer to a plate; serve immediately.

Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

FILLET OF SOLE MORNAV

1/2 cup butter
1/2 lb. fillets of sole, about 1 1/2 pounds
1/2 salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
1/2 cup white wine
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup cream
1/2 egg yolk
1/2 cup freshly grated nutmeg
1/2 cup grated Gruyere or Swiss cheese
1/2 T. grated Parmesan cheese

Preheat oven to 400 degrees.

Grease a gratin pan with 1 T. of the butter. Place fillets of sole in the pan, each piece folded in half. Sprinkle with salt and pepper to taste. Add wine. Bake for 10 minutes and remove from the oven.

Melt remaining butter in a saucepan. Add the flour and mix constantly with a stiff wire whisk until blended. Add wine, add the milk, fish broth from baking dish and cream, blending vigorously with the whisk. Add the nutmeg and nutmeg, blending briefly. The sauce should be thick and smooth. Remove from the flame.

Add Gruyere and Swiss cheese and stir, tasting for seasoning.

Pour the sauce over the fish. Sprinkle with Parmesan and place under the broiler, about 4 inches from the heat, to brown.

Yield: 6 servings.

1/2 t. finely chopped fresh thyme, when available (do not substitute dried thyme)
1/2 t. chopped garlic
1/2 cup dry white wine
1/2 cup vegetable oil
Freshly ground pepper

1. In a large saucepan, cover the potatoes with water and add salt to taste. Bring to boil and simmer for 20 minutes.

2. While the potatoes are still warm, peel them and cut them into 1/4-inch-thick slices. Place them in a large mixing bowl and using a large rubber spatula combine all the ingredients with the potatoes, being careful to break the potato slices as little as possible. Place in a warm spot until ready to serve. If the salad has been standing for a while, stir from the bottom before serving.

Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

OMELETTE PAYSANNE

3 T. oil
1/2 lb. potatoes, boiled with skin, cut into 1/2-inch slices
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste

6 eggs
1 T. coarsely chopped parsley
1/2 cup diced Swiss cheese or Gruyere
1 medium onion, sliced (about 1/2 cup)
2 T. butter
1 t. vinegar

1. In 11-inch black steel frying pan, heat oil until it smokes slightly.

2. Place the potatoes in the pan, spreading them along the bottom as evenly as possible to facilitate complete browning. Cook, turning occasionally with a steel spatula.

Add salt and pepper to taste.

Meanwhile, beat eggs in a mixing bowl and add parsley. Stir in the cheese.

4. As potatoes turn lightly brown, add the onion to the pan, turning occasionally. When potatoes are thoroughly brown, drain most of the oil and add butter to the pan.

5. Add the egg mixture to the potatoes and onions, stirring gently with the rounded base of an ordinary fork to allow the egg to flow to the bottom. Let set, at high flame.

6. When the mixture has solidified, shake the pan to be sure the omelet is loose. Turn the omelet by inverting a plate over the pan and quickly inverting the pan. Then slide the omelet back into the pan. The final stage of cooking is brief, only about 30 seconds.

7. Spoon vinegar around periphery of eggs and transfer back to plate.

Cut into wedges and serve, either hot or at room temperature.

Yield: 2 or 3 servings.

LAMB SHANKS BOULANGERE

- 1 T. chopped garlic
- 1 t. fresh thyme, or ½ t. dried
- 2½ lbs. potatoes, peeled and cut into ½-inch slices (about 6 cups)

- 2 onions
- ¼ cup chopped parsley
- 2 bay leaves
- Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
- 4 lamb shanks, about 1 pound each, trimmed of excess fat
- 4 T. butter
- 1. Preheat the oven to 450 degrees.

2. Soak a clay pot, top and bottom, for at least 10 minutes.
3. Combine the garlic and thyme by chopping them together finely.
4. In a mixing bowl, place the potatoes, onions, thyme and garlic mixture, parsley, one of the bay leaves and salt to taste. Toss together well.
5. Sprinkle the shanks with salt and pepper. Place two in the pot, cover with a layer of half the potatoes. Place remaining two in pot and cover with remaining potatoes and one bay leaf. Distribute the butter over potatoes. Sprinkle with pepper.
6. Cover and bake for 1½ hours, or until so tender that the meat easily comes off the bone.

Yield: 4 servings.

COUNTRY PATE

- 12 or more very thin slices unsalted fatback (Caul fat, available in some butcher shops, is also suitable)
- 3 pounds pork shoulder, 2 parts lean, 1 part fatty
- 1 pound boneless, skinless breast of chicken, cubed
- ½ pound chicken livers
- ¼ cup coarsely chopped shallots
- ¼ lb. boiled ham cut into ½-inch cubes
- 2 eggs
- ½ t. freshly ground pepper
- ½ t. allspice
- ½ t. coriander
- Dash ground clove
- Dash of cinnamon
- ¼ t. nutmeg
- Dash cayenne pepper
- Salt to taste
- 2 t. sugar
- 1 bay leaf
- 1. Preheat the oven to 350 degrees.
- 2. Line the bottom of a 10-cup terrine and then the sides with fat, draping some of each slice over the edge to fold over the pate.

3. Combine the pork, chicken, shallots in food processor and chop until about a third at a time so as not to overheat the motor.
4. Place chopped meat, cubed ham and mixing bowl. Add all seasonings, except bay leaf, with hands.
5. Place mixture into terrine in stages, down as you go. Take the folds of fat from the terrine and fold them toward the center. Press flat on the remaining bare spot of the terrine and place a slice of fat over it.
6. Cover and put terrine in a roasting pan with enough boiling water to rise about an inch. Cook for 2 hours, or until an internal temperature of 160 degrees is reached.

They paid the tax that failed

EL CERRITO — Five members of the Gray Panthers have enriched city coffers by $344.25, representing $68.85 from each to match the amount they would have paid in 1983-84 had Measure E, the municipal services tax, been approved by voters Nov. 2.

Panther spokesperson Art Schroeder said the contributions were made in hopes of evoking similar responses from others in the community.

The donations were presented Wednesday at City Hall to Vice Mayor Howard Abelson, who commented that such contributions were "the only way to keep this city going."

Measure E was approved by 4,845 residents, but 5-368 turned it down. Many supporters of the measure feel the override would have carried had there been sufficient time to campaign for it, and are eager to see it placed on the ballot again in the spring.

City officials feel the City Council has the legal authority to set an override election on its own. In view of the Nov. 2 election results, however, council members have serious concerns about the political ramifications of such an action.

City Manager Ronald Creagh commented recently that first-quarter revenues in the 1982-83 budget are "on target" with the original projections, but added that further budget cuts will be necessary if the midyear review of the city's financial status shows an adverse trend.

Had it passed, Measure E would have raised $560,000 for the city in fiscal year 1983-84.

Sennin group marks its 1st year

ALBANY — On Nov. 14, the Sennin Organization, 1309 Solano Ave., celebrated one year of doing business in Albany with a Sennin-Do workshop and achievement awards.

Sennin-Do is a method of personal development based on the principle of mind and body unification. Instruction is in meditation, breathing exercises, stretching methods, cooperative games, and healing arts. The Sennin Organization, which draws most of its students from Albany, has also acquired members throughout the Bay Area. This growth is due in part to the help it has received from local groups such as the Albany Park Department which sponsors classes, a spokesman said.

Hugh Davey Sensei said that to celebrate its first anniversary, for the rest of November, all new adult students will receive a 10 percent discount on their first month of tuition. For information call 236-4340.

A consummate chef's favorite recipes

7. Remove from oven, uncover and place some kind of weight over the top. I use a slab of wood topped by a piece of lead weighing 1 pound. The result is a more compact pate, and one in which the fat rises evenly toward the top. Allow to cool, preferably over a rack in a space with good air circulation. Refrigerate with the weight on until chilled and fat is solidified.

8. Scrape off fat, slice and serve with cornichons.

Yield: at least 10 servings.

CHEESE AND ZUCCHINI TART

TART SHELL:

1½ cups flour
8 T. butter, cut into small pieces
1 egg yolk
½ t. salt
2 T. ice water

FILLING:

1 T. butter
½ cup thinly sliced onion
1 pound small zucchini, sliced very thin (3 cups)
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
3 egg yolks
1 whole egg
½ cup cream
½ cup milk
½ t. nutmeg
Dash cayenne pepper
1 cup Gruyere cheese in ¼-inch cubes
1 cup chopped fresh basil (optional)
2 T. grated Parmesan cheese

1. Place all the ingredients for the tart shell, except butter, in bowl of food processor and blend for 5 seconds. Add water and blend just until pastry pulls away from sides of bowl and begins to form a ball. On a floured board, shape the dough into a ball. Wrap it in wax paper and let rest in refrigerator for 30 minutes.

2. Preheat the oven to 375 degrees.

3. Roll out dough on a floured board until it is slightly larger than a 9-inch flan ring. Place ring on a black steel baking tray.

4. Roll dough onto the rolling pin and unroll it over the ring. Press dough against the wall of the ring. Cut away most of excess dough, leaving only enough to create a thickened rim with fingers. Press a kitchen fork lightly along the rim to create a crimped design.

5. Line the shell with wax paper or kitchen parchment and weight down with aluminum weights or dried beans. Bake for 10 minutes. Remove weights and paper and bake 5 more minutes.

6. To prepare filling, melt the butter in a shallow skillet. Sauté the onion and zucchini for about 5 minutes. (Do not let the vegetables brown.) Sprinkle with salt and pepper to taste. Drain in a collander.

7. In a mixing bowl, use a wire whisk to beat the yolks, whole egg, cream, milk, salt and pepper, nutmeg and cayenne until well blended. With a slotted spoon, place zucchini and onions in shell. Cover with Gruyere. Ladle the batter over the cheese and zucchini. Sprinkle with basil and Parmesan. Bake in a 375-degree oven for 45 minutes.

8. Let cool on a rack, unmold and serve warm.

Yield: 6 servings.

MARBLE CHEESECAKE

½ cup graham cracker crumbs
2 pounds cream cheese, at room temperature
4 eggs
1½ cups sugar
¼ t. almond extract
2 ounces unsweetened chocolate

1. Preheat the oven to 325 degrees.

2. Butter the inside of a metal cake pan measuring 8 inches wide and 3 inches deep. Do not use a springform pan. Sprinkle the inside with the crumbs, enough to coat the bottom and sides. Shake out excess crumbs, reserving about 1 teaspoon.

3. Place the cream cheese, eggs, sugar and almond extract into the bowl of a KitchenAid or other electric mixer. Start beating at low speed and, as the ingredients blend, increase the speed to high. Continue beating until thoroughly blended.

4. Melt the chocolate in a saucepan placed in a larger pan of boiling water, or use a flame-control device. Remove from heat to cool.

5. Place about one third of the cheesecake batter in the small bowl of the electric mixer. Add melted chocolate. Mix until smooth. Place plain batter and chocolate batter alternately, a large spoonful at a time into cake pan. Rotate pan briskly back and forth several times to level the top and slightly marbleize the two batters.

6. Place the pan inside a larger pan. The larger pan must not touch the sides of the cake pan and it must not be deeper than the cake pan. Pour hot water into the larger pan until it is about 1½ inches deep. Place in the oven and bake for 1½ hours. The top of the cake should be a rich golden brown and feel dry to the touch, but the cake will still be soft inside. Turn off the oven heat. Leave the cake in the oven for 30 minutes, then remove from the oven.

7. Remove the cheesecake from the water and place it on a cake rack for a few hours until it is completely cool. Do not cool the cake in the refrigerator because it will harden the butter and the cake will stick.

8. When the bottom of the cake pan has reached room temperature, place a flat plate or a board on top and invert. Remove the cake pan. Sprinkle the bottom of the cake evenly with a few more graham cracker crumbs. Refrigerate the cake for at least 5 hours, or preferably overnight. Or freeze it. Serve very cold. When cutting the cake, always dip the knife in hot water before each cut to prevent the cake from sticking to the knife.

Yield: 12 or more servings.

Note of thanks

He loves the Kensington cops

Kensington is fortunate to have a personalized and responsible police force that cares, in detail, about the problems of Kensington people. This enhances the property values in Kensington and justifies a sizeable tax levy or support of the police department.

My new car was side-swiped on Oct. 31 around 2:30 a.m. at the corner of Grizzly Peak and Kenyon. I noticed the damage the next morning at approximately 10:30 a.m. Upon calling the Kensington Police Department, I received almost immediate attention. Officer Bray arrived at my car within 4 minutes. He thoroughly reviewed the scene, including other damage done by the driver. He clearly considered this "hit and run" property damage a significant problem.

Later that day Officer Bray actually located the vehicle, which had been parked by the drunken driver soon after the side-swipe. Officer Bray contacted the driver and arranged for him to pay for repairs to my car. Officer Bray has been kind enough to call me at least three times after the incident in order to insure that the driver will pay for the damage.

Officer Bray has shown a most uncommon consideration and attention to this problem. I have had my car vandalized both in Berkeley and San Francisco. The attention given to my problem in Kensington was far superior to what I received in either Berkeley or San Francisco.

Kensington has a police force that puts its attention on the needs of Kensington people. In that respect, whatever tax dollars go towards the police are well spent. From an economist's viewpoint, these dollars are as much a benefit as they are a cost. Kensington property values may actually increase as a result of tax levies for police protection. In an era of increasing crime, and fear of crime, Kensington has made a wise investment in an extraordinary police force.

When property taxes and levies are considered, Kensington residents should increase their payments for a police department that delivers direct, tangible benefits.

Sincerely,

Jerald H. Udinsky, Ph.D.

Wanna rent Santa Claus this year?

EL CERRITO — The El Cerrito Community Center again will offer the "Rent a Santa" program during the Christmas holidays.

Anyone can sign up to have Santa Visit a Christmas party, friends or family. Santa will be accompanied by his elf helper and is available for evening visits Dec. 18 - 24. Cost: $7 for El Cerrito residents, $9 for non-residents.

All El Cerrito residents are eligible. If you live outside of El Cerrito, call to see if you are within the boundaries to have a visit. Signups begin Dec. 6 at the El Cerrito Community Center, 7007 Mooser Lane. For more information call 525-6748.

Saving the El Cerrito swim pool

EL CERRITO — At the second annual SOFathon, Nov. 6 for the benefit of the El Cerrito Swim Center, 80 swimmers swam 8810 laps, for more than $3,870 in pledges.

34 Gators swim team members swam 4,532 laps for over $1,650 in pledges, and 46 adult swimmers completed 4,278 laps, for more than $2,220 in pledges. The goal of the Support Our Pool Fund is $8,000 to maintain the programs of the Swim Center as a year-round operation.

Contributions, tax-deductible, may be sent to the El Cerrito Swim Center, 7007 Mooser Lane, El Cerrito, CA 94530. Checks should be made out to: City of El Cerrito - Support our pool fund.

Church Christmas bazaar set

EL CERRITO — The public is invited to attend "Koffee Noel," the annual Christmas bazaar of El Cerrito United Methodist Women, on Saturday, Dec. 4, 10 to 2, in the Douglass Social Hall of the church, 6830 Stockton Ave., El Cerrito.

The project Work Day group as well as individuals offer many items for sale.

Briefs

Albany High SAT scores above average

ALBANY — Albany High School S.A.T. scores continue to rise above state and national averages, according to the College Board. The Scholastic Achievement Test (S.A.T.) scores for 1982 Albany High School graduates were recently announced by the testing agency, the College Board.

S.A.T. scores are used by majority of four-year colleges and universities to help determine admission eligibility of high school graduates. The test is divided into two sections, verbal and math. The scores range from 200 to 800 for each section.

Approximately one-half of Albany High School's 1982 graduates took the S.A.T. The mean scores were 442 verbal and 548 math. The national mean on the verbal section was 426 and 467 on the math section. State means were 425 and 474.

The Albany scores continue a trend of rising scores. In 1979, the verbal and math scores were 394 and 503, in 1980, 410 and 509, and in 1981, 432 and 544.

Nationally, S.A.T. scores peaked with 1963 high school graduates and then declined slowly until this year. The 1982 graduating classes registered minor improvements, reversing a 19 year trend.

How to donate to city's senior center

ALBANY — The Friends of Albany Seniors is now a non-profit corporation under both state and federal regulations.

The following guidelines have been prepared by treasurer Harry Rabin as a general guide line:

Direct gifts: A check made out directly to the Friends of Albany Seniors is a tax-deductible gift to a non-profit corporation and can be deducted on your tax return.

Memorial gifts: The same deductions are available if a donation is made in memory of someone.

United Way: Charitable contributions to the United Way can now be designated to go the Friends of Albany Seniors. This can be done either as a direct payment to United Way or as part of a payroll deduction.

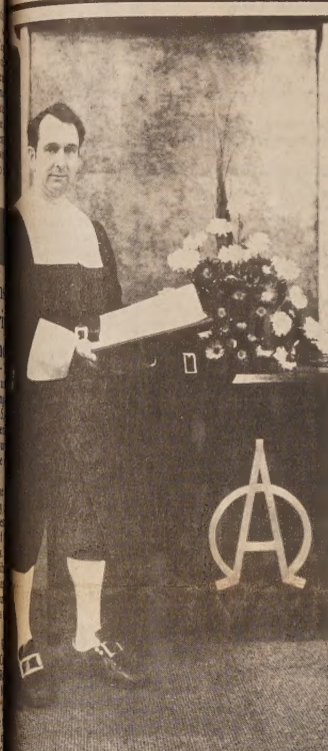

Wills: Donation of both money and property can be made to the Friends of Albany Seniors through your will. Dollar amounts or property so designated in the will would be paid out of the estate.

Stocks or other assets: Donations of stocks or other assets of value receive a tax deduction at market value. This is a more complicated process and needs expert advice.

Wongs visit China

EL CERRITO — Grace and William Wong, of Everett Street, have just returned from a six-week tour of Mainland China.

They visited the cities of Hong Kong, Guangzhou, Wuhan, Yichang, Chongqing, Chengdu, Kunming, Xian, Beijing, Shanghai, Suzhou, Hangzhou and Guilin. They also took a cruise of the Yangtze River and saw the famous Three Gorges.

Pilgrim goes to Kensington

In the Thanksgiving spirit, the Rev. Ken Barnes was dressed as a Pilgrim at today's 10 a.m. service at Arlington Community Church, 52 Arlington Ave., and address the congregation as a "Pilgrim returned."

Also in the spirit of the season, the children will receive gifts of canned foods for the Food Pantry and the adult silver offering also will be given to the church, administered for emergency relief by the Richmond Interfaith Program (GRIP).

Opening lead: ♦ Q

By Oswald Jacoby
and James Jacoby

The Lord helps those who help themselves certainly is an appropriate expression for what the defense did against South's heart game.

West opened the queen of diamonds. A careless East would simply signal come-on with the eight spot. South would duck, win the second diamond, go after trumps and eventually discard one spade on dummy's fourth club.

East wasn't at all careless. He plunked his king on West's queen. South couldn't afford to duck that one. He knew a spade would come right back and West could cash two spades, a diamond and the ace of trumps. So South won and led his jack of trumps in an effort to bamboozle West. Not that West couldn't duck if he wished, but South, like most declarers, was a natural trickster.

Anyway, West went right up with his ace and was now faced with a real problem. If East had held just king and one diamond, it was up to West to play his jack and then give East a ruff.

West decided that wasn't the case and that his only hope was to find East with the 10, so West led his deuce of diamonds.

Sure enough East did produce the 10 and led a spade to send declarer to the never-never land (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

They are involved in many causes pertaining to the Methodist church as well as other causes - locally, nationally, internationally. There are separate circle meetings as well as other activities.

For more information, call the church, 525-3500.

How to deal with holiday stresses

EL CERRITO—Holiday stress and how to deal with it through relaxation techniques and affirmations will be the topic at the next general meeting of Together Again, St. John's Separated and Divorced Men's and Women's Group, on Sunday, Nov. 21, at 7 p.m. at St John the Baptist's Conference Room, 11150 San Pablo Ave., El Cerrito (entrance from back parking lot on Kearney Street).

Heinz Batterman, a certified stress reduction therapist, will be the speaker for the evening and explain helpful procedures and lead the group through an actual relaxation exercise.

Batterman has a B.A. and general secondary teaching credential from San Francisco State University and is currently studying for a dual program with a masters in psychology and credential in marriage, family and child counseling.

Potter's Guild sets annual holiday sale

The Bay Area's largest cooperative of professional potters, the Berkeley Potters Guild, will hold its 11th annual Christmas show and sale. On the weekends of December 4-5, 11-12, and 18-19.

The guild will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., every day of the sale at 731 Jones Street, Berkeley. Call 524-8759.

Located in the heart of West Berkeley's artisan community, the Potters Guild houses fifteen separate studios and almost as many kilns.

Hey kids, want to be cartoonists?

ALBANY—The Albany Park & Recreation Department will offer a cartooning class to children 9-15 years at the Albany Community center, 1123 8th Street. Instructor Mark Bernstein says, "Basic cartooning is based on the principle that there are no mistakes. This course allows students to investigate their imaginations in a series of exercises and original games that are structured for their age."

"Humor, imagination and creativity are unlimited when the student gains the skills and techniques demonstrated in this course. Basic cartooning can be repeated several times due to the introduction of new materials each session."

Students progress at their own rate. Class will run from Jan. 12 through Feb. 17, 3:30-5 p.m.

Fee: $16.50 plus a nominal $6 material fee payable to the instructor at the first class meeting.

Bernstein has been a cartoonist for the past ten years and does comic strips and illustrations for children's books.

Sign up at the Albany Park & Recreation Department, 1000 San Pablo Avenue, Albany or call 644-8514 for further information.

Christmas Bazaar set

KENSINGTON—The Step One Nursery School will hold its annual Christmas Bazaar, featuring "unusual crafts and delectable taste treats."

It will be held at the Kensington Youth Hut (off The Arlington) on Sunday, Dec. 5, from 10-5.

Astrograph

If your birthday is today, Nov. 21:
Your inborn ingenuity will be the key to your success in the coming year. It will point out innovative ways to sweeten your lifestyle and better your security.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Your material aspects are encouraging today. Something could suddenly develop from a least-suspected source which could add to your holdings or income.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Others see you as being very personable today. You have the ability to light up any room you enter. Impressions you make on new acquaintances will be favorable and lasting.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Follow your hunches today regarding ways which you feel will best serve your self-interests. You'll know how to get what you want without stepping on anyone's toes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Don't turn down any social invitations today. There's a possibility you'll meet someone interesting who could open up a new circle of contacts.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Things could suddenly take a turn for the better today pertaining to an ambitious desire which you have been harboring. Be prepared to react.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
A friend might talk to you today about an idea or project which is unique. Be attentive. What's said could be of benefit.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Even though this may not be a business day for you, there's a chance something profitable might develop. It will be a joint venture.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
In a partnership situation today your cohort could be more on-track than you are. Play a supportive role if his or her way of doing things is better.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Others may come to you with their problems today because they'll innately recognize that if anyone can find solutions for them, it will be you. They're right.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
This will be a very enjoyable day if you associate with active friends who are young at heart and have nothing on their minds except having a good time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Instead of merely idling your hours away today, occupy yourself with things which you feel are truly productive. You need to keep your hands and mind busy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Try to break away from your usual routines today and seek activities which are fun, but different. A change of pace will brighten your outlook.

If your birthday is Monday, Nov. 22:
Your leadership qualities will be substantially enhanced this coming year and you're likely to take on new responsibilities you were reluctant to handle previously.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
You should be rather fortunate today materially, but you might not handle yourself so well in other matters, especially when dealing with the family.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Today, try not to boast about things you've yet to accomplish. There's the possibility an inaccurate schedule could cause you to make excuses later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Review your expenses carefully today if you think you have been spending too much money. You should be able to find ways to trim nonessentials.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
It's important to treat the objectives you set for yourself seriously today, or you may coast and fall short of your mark.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Try not to concern yourself today about negative imaginings which might never happen. Focus on your positive goals and bring them into being.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Think your moves through today. Don't let your impulsive urges involve you in a situation which could cause complications.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Rely more upon yourself today and less upon associates. They may promise to do things for you which they'll be unable to deliver.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Beware of tendencies today to rationalize or postpone things where your work is concerned. Unfinished tasks will prove to be harder to accomplish later.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Unless you schedule your time properly today, there's a possibility you could become involved in several unproductive diversions and have little to show for your efforts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Be careful about making promises or commitments today. You might not take them seriously, but those to whom they're made will consider them binding.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
When passing on instructions today, make doubly sure to be clear and specific. Fuzzy directives could lead to mistakes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You're likely to have lots of bright ideas today, but you might not put them into action properly, turning a potentially profitable situation into a no-gainer.

Hire kids for work

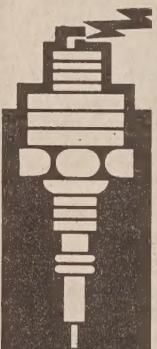

ALBANY—Albany High School students need partime jobs

Anyone needing help with babysitting, yard work, sales office, etc. should call Bill Savage, coordinator of work experience/vocational education at 526-7254.

See Santa at the Plaza

EL CERRITO—On Friday, Nov. 26, at 10 a.m., Santa Claus will arrive via helicopter at El Cerrito Plaza.

The first 200 children to visit Santa Claus will receive a special gift, and all Santa visitors will receive candy canes and coloring books. Santa photos will be available.
